Welcome to our 7th Introductory Course in Genetic Counseling in Oncology 2020

Genetic counseling in oncology, mostly done by clinicians, continues to gain importance each year, as technology as well as genetic and medical knowledge advance at a rapid pace paired with increased acceptance by professionals and the public. The results of genetic testing not only help in early diagnosis and prevention of cancer by medical or surgical means, but increasingly also determine the treatment of cancer, be it surgery, chemotherapy, and newer drugs, such as PARP inhibitors, and immunotherapy.

Genetic counseling in oncology previously concerning predominantly hereditary breast and ovarian cancer, gets increasingly relevant for clinicians of other fields, such as gastroenterology, urology, pathology, psychology and endocrinology, also reflected in the current course program.

This yearly introductory SAKK course organized by a scientific committee of the CPTC group responds to this increasing need by offering a compact course with essential theoretical and practical knowledge, but also providing a platform for discussions with our distinguished faculty and for networking with interested colleagues.

We welcome participants from all language areas of Switzerland, and therefore our official course language is English.

On behalf of our scientific committee I wish you a very informative, challenging and successful course as a basis for your own genetic counseling activity.

Dr. Rudolf Morant,
