

SAKK-Novartis: Together for Patients Award

Grant

The Swiss Group for Clinical Cancer Research (SAKK) and Novartis Pharma Schweiz AG award the SAKK/Novartis: Together for Patients Award. The Award is endowed with a maximal amount of CHF 30'000 and supports planned and ongoing patient-focused projects as described below in the field of Hema-Oncology and Oncology. Hemato-oncological projects are especially encouraged to apply.

Eligible Projects

Eligible projects are such that aim to prevent or alleviate or reduce the burden of hemato-oncological and oncological diseases for patients and/or their relatives, thereby significantly improving patient care by optimizing aspects in the following areas: prevention, networking, communication, outcome, quality of life.

Possible project proposals could include, but are not limited to:

- Patient workshops to educate on specific topics
- Tools to collect Patient-Reported Outcomes to improve patient care
- (Digital) tools to enhance and support patient self-care (nutrition, movement, psychological and social aspects, etc.)
- Platforms / projects to facilitate (timely and efficient) patient – physician communication and interaction (virtual visits, remote monitoring)
- Platforms to facilitate data management / data collection
- Projects for disease prevention for patients with hemato-oncological and oncological diseases

Eligible projects must be conducted in Switzerland, and might be even part of a larger project. In the latter case the submitted project should be a substantial part of such an overarching project and focus on a specific aspect. The amount of the award depends on the expected costs and is limited to CHF 30'000. Only costs that are still occurring can be covered by the award. Projects should not be connected to a single drug or treatment. Clinical trials and basic research are out of scope.

Eligible Applicants

Office and/or hospital-based practicing physicians and other health care professionals (p.ex. nurses) may apply for the award. Applicant must have a primary place of work in Switzerland.

Application Process and Timelines

Applications have to be submitted electronically via the SAKK website until September 30, 2021. Only complete submissions can be considered.

Briefly, the application has to:

- Be written in English language
- Include project title, rationale, aim of the project and how this improves care of hematological and/or oncological patients
- Include a detailed description of the project encompassing the project plan, timelines/duration of the project (max. 5 pages, excl. CV)
- Include a detailed financial plan / budget (please be aware that the awarded amount is depending on the costs still occurring and may be less than CHF 30'000.- if upcoming project costs are smaller. The award will not cover past costs.)
- Include a CV of the applicants (max. 2 pages)

Applications not fulfilling all requirements mentioned above cannot be considered.

SAKK-Novartis: Together for Patients Award

Jury

The jury acts and decides independently on the proposals and is composed of four individuals:

- Jury president (SAKK member), chairperson with 1 vote
- 2 Experts in hematology/oncology (will be selected by the chair), with 1 vote each
- 1 Representative of Patient Advisory Board with 1 vote

Each jury member has one vote for the evaluation of the project proposal. The winning project is selected based on a consensus process among the jury members. In case consensus cannot be reached, the chairperson has the final decision.

Criteria for Project Evaluation

Project proposals will be evaluated only if they are deemed to be eligible and feasible according to the project scope defined above. Evaluation will be based on the following criteria:

- Estimated impact on certain aspects of hemato-oncological and oncological patient care such as: prevention, networking, communication, outcome, quality of life.
- Innovation and feasibility of project
- Robustness of financial plans

Notification, Grant Ceremony, Follow-Up

Notification and grant ceremony

All applicant(s) will be notified in writing within 6–8 weeks after the application deadline. The grant winner will be announced at the “Swiss Oncology and Hematology Conference – SOHC” where he/ she will be requested to present a short exposé on the planned project. Further announcements may follow in journals and newsletters.

Payments

A respective grant agreement and consent have to be signed by the grant winner, specifying amount and use of the granted amount over time. Bank transfer of the grant sum to the grant winner will be accomplished by Novartis within 3 months after the grant ceremony. The transfer can only be made to a Swiss healthcare organization/institution. The amount of the award depends on the expected costs and is limited to a maximum of CHF 30'000. Only costs that are still occurring can be covered by the grant. No later than 2 years from the ceremony, the winner must provide an overview of the actual financial spending to confirm that the award had been used in total in accordance with these regulations.

Follow-up

The grant winner has to provide a brief update on the progress or the final results of the project. No later than 2 years after the ceremony, the winner must further provide a written summary of the proceedings of the project.
